

AGILITY

Agility is an active sport, and a very social weekend activity for many people in NZ.

Handlers train their dog to correctly negotiate a variety of different pieces of equipment from jumps and tunnels to weave poles and contact equipment.

All types of dogs and people can give it a go, from children to grandparents, from Chihuahuas to German Shepherds.

In an agility competition, dogs are directed around a course. There are judges and the fastest round with no errors wins!

There are more than 40 clubs all over NZ who run regular agility training classes, and a number of agility competitions.

Find out more at: www.dogagility.org.nz

AGILITY

Agility is an active sport, and a very social weekend activity for many people in NZ.

Handlers train their dog to correctly negotiate a variety of different pieces of equipment from jumps and tunnels to weave poles and contact equipment.

All types of dogs and people can give it a go, from children to grandparents, from Chihuahuas to German Shepherds.

In an agility competition, dogs are directed around a course. There are judges and the fastest round with no errors wins!

There are more than 40 clubs all over NZ who run regular agility training classes, and a number of agility competitions.

Find out more at:
www.dogagility.org.nz

AGILITY

Agility is an active sport, and a very social weekend activity for many people in NZ.

Handlers train their dog to correctly negotiate a variety of different pieces of equipment from jumps and tunnels to weave poles and contact equipment.

All types of dogs and people can give it a go, from children to grandparents, from Chihuahuas to German Shepherds.

In an agility competition, dogs are directed around a course. There are judges and the fastest round with no errors wins!

There are more than 40 clubs all over NZ who run regular agility training classes, and a number of agility competitions.

Find out more at: www.dogagility.org.nz